A method to join data from a National Travel Survey of individuals into travel behaviour of families – with the driving pattern of the household cars as an example.

Christensen L. 2014. A method to join data from a National Travel Survey of individuals into travel behaviour of families – with the driving pattern of the household cars as an example. In 10th International Conference on Transport Survey Methods.