A rechargeable carbon-oxygen battery

The invention relates to a rechargeable battery and a method to operate a rechargeable battery having high efficiency and high energy density for storing energy. The battery stores electrical energy in the bonds of carbon and oxygen atoms by converting carbon dioxide into solid carbon and oxygen.

General information
State: Published
Organisations: Department of Energy Conversion and Storage, Applied Electrochemistry, Fundamental Electrochemistry
Contributors: Graves, C. R., Mogensen, M. B.
Publication date: 2014

Publication information
IPC: C25B1/00
Patent number: WO2014044285
Date: 27/03/2014
Priority date: 21/09/2012
Priority number: EP20120185411
Original language: English
Research output: Research › Patent – Annual report year: 2014