Application of integrative genomics and systems biology to conventional and in vitro reproductive traits in cattle