Convergence of near-field added resistance calculations using a high order finite-difference method