Increasing the cooking temperature of meat does not affect nonheme iron absorption from a phytate-rich meal in women.