On modeling micro-structural evolution using a higher order strain gradient continuum theory