The influence of design characteristics on statistical inference in nonlinear estimation: A simulation study based on survival data and hazard modeling

Research output: Research - peer-review › Journal article – Annual report year: 2000