Using embedded design structures to unravel a complex decision in a product development system