A comparative study on the activity of fungal lytic polysaccharide monooxygenases for the depolymerization of cellulose in soybean spent flakes.

Research output: Contribution to journal › Journal article – Annual report year: 2017 › Research › peer-review