A long-term field experiment demonstrates the influence of tillage on the bacterial potential to produce soil structure-stabilizing agents such as exopolysaccharides and lipopolysaccharides.

Research output: Contribution to journal › Journal article – Annual report year: 2019 › Research › peer-review