A numerical and experimental study of stress and crack development in kiln-dried wood