Establishing a high throughput method for medium optimization – a case study using Streptomyces lividans as host for production of heterologous protein - DTU Orbit (09/09/2019)

Establishing a high throughput method for medium optimization – a case study using Streptomyces lividans as host for production of heterologous protein
Research output: Contribution to journal › Conference abstract in journal – Annual report year: 2012 › Research › peer-review