Evaluation of two microscale flow models through two wind climate generalization procedures using observations from seven masts at a complex site in Brazil - DTU Orbit (17/08/2019)

Evaluation of two microscale flow models through two wind climate generalization procedures using observations from seven masts at a complex site in Brazil

Research output: Contribution to journal › Journal article – Annual report year: 2018 › Research › peer-review