Topological clustering as a tool for planning water quality monitoring in water distribution networks.